EVERYONE MUST HELP

Not another winter like the last!
That was the pledge of the new Administration when it came into office. Every effort is being given to achieve it. It represents the most earnest hope of every citizen.

But government alone can't do it all. We can spend money for relief—and we are, but there is never enough. We can build public works—but there comes an end to that, and the public treasury is not bottomless. A large share of any kind of relief effort must be borne by the individual citizen.

And this doesn't mean charity, vital as that is. The best kind of relief is that which spends money and provides jobs on projects which are permanently valuable, and gives those who pay the bill something really needed. That is true whether the work is done by the Federal government or the state, or John Jones down the street.

A dollar spent for a new house, or to repair an old one, does double duty. An extremely large share of it goes directly to labor in your own town. The rest of it goes to various industries, through numerous pockets. It touches many states and communities. It is always growing—and by the time it has run its course it has done the work of fifty or a hundred dollars.

Remember that—and remember too that you have a selfish interest in building and repairing while prices are still in the economic basement.

HANDLING NRA VIOLATORS

The NRA has its pioneer work behind it. Now it is gradually developing into a more rational, better organized governmental bureau. Last change gave the blue eagle five definite branches. They cover, Extractive Industries, Construction and Machinery, Chemicals, Leather and other Manufactures, Trades, Services, Textiles and Clothing. Each branch has an administrator all its own, making a sort of five-man cabinet to Big Shot Administrator Hugh Johnson. Persons who wish to report a code violation to the NRA have only to go to the post office, procure a blank, fill it out and file it with the local NRA compliance officer. He makes an effort to fix matters up, and if he fails he passes it on to his immediate superior, the Divisional Administrator. He takes a crack at it, and in event of failure, sends it up to the National Compliance Board. If it flops, General Johnson gets it next. If necessary, he can turn the charge over to the Federal Trade Commission or the Attorney-General.

General Johnson always has a lot of fights on his hands. Most recent was with the Federal Reserve Board's Bulletin. It said that late industrial declines have occurred most severely in industries which have been affected by codes. The General shook his head, growled menacingly, barked out that the situation was precisely the reverse of that, and that code industries have been going forward. So the reader can take his choice. A more important fight of the battling General, is his long-standing feud with Ford. The other day he traded in his government Lincoln for a Cadillac, announced that Ford would get no government contracts. Showdown will come soon, when automobile makers are required to send in their employment statistics. If Ford refuses, as everyone believes he will, next round will probably take place in the courts.

GOLD AND EMPLOYMENT

Mr. Roosevelt's latest announcement on gold, in which he pledged the government to offer a market at the world price for as much of the yellow metal as is offered to it, will have a salutary effect on this country.

The purpose of the plan as affecting currency and credit expansion is of only academic interest to most of us.

Its effect will doubtless be an important expansion of mining activities, both here and abroad. Gold is like everything else—the wider and more profitable the market, the more effort will be given to finding and developing the product.

Thousands of men will find new work in the mining industry. Thousands of families will receive their livelihood because of it. And millions of dollars will be put in circulation, to surge through the veins of industry and speed the work of recovery.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 12.

The Golden Text was, "The earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God" (Romans 8:19).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and his Maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded. I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways" (Isaiah 45:11-13).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Immortal man was and is God's image or idea, even the infinite expression of infinite Mind, and immortal man is coexistent and coeternal with that Mind.... God, the divine Principle of man, and man in God's likeness, are inseparable, harmonious, and eternal" (p. 339).

S. POLE EXPLORER,
TO SPEAK AT H. S.*Public Is Invited to Hear
Explorer Speak on Byrd
Antarctic Expedition

Charles E. Lofgren, personnel officer of the recent Byrd Expedition to the South Pole, has been secured to speak before the Antioch high school assembly at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, November 21. The lecture will be open to the public, as well as to the high school students.

The explorer's lecture is accompanied with the showing and personal explanation of two, four or five reels of especially selected motion pictures taken during the stay of the expedition in a land of ice and snow.

The expedition composed of 80 men, occupying and manning two ships, the City of New York, flagship of the outfit, and the Eleanor Bolling, supply ship, set out from New York Harbor, August 25, 1928.

On Christmas day of the same year, the expedition sighted the Ross ice barrier, where the explorers were to make their base during the months to come. Two days later they landed in the Bay of Whales and began moving their supplies to a point about 8 miles from the edge of the barrier. Here they erected "Little America" and raised the star-spangled banner.

Being the southernmost point in the world didn't mean a thing when the mercury fell to 72 degrees below zero. "One July night," Lofgren said, "On August 21st activity was begun on trail work. The scientific parties began their explorations. Now mountain ranges were discovered. The lowest form of vegetation, lichens, a low form of moss, was discovered on the rocks of several of the high peaks in the mountains. The discovery of small formations of coal led the party to the conclusion that the entire continent had once been a fertile land. Sandstone found also proved that the mountains were not of volcanic origin. Penguins, gulls, seals and whales were the only signs of life in the land.

The expedition contributed immeasurably to the advancement of accuracy in the fields of geography, meteorology, geology, physics, terrestrial magnetism, science of the glacial, radio research, biology and known after sciences, the explorer declared. Large mass accompanying Mr. Lofgren on his last expedition is "Tom Pratt," famous Eskimo sled-dog, born at the south pole. States today, "Pratt" appears in person and J. Sexton, co-producer to the audience at all District of Mr. Lofgren's lectures, addressed Lofgren is retired from the United States navy in which he spent 20 years as an enlisted man and a commissioned officer.

LOUIS PREGENZER
RESCUES 3 MEN IN GRASS LAKE

Louis Pregenzler, Grass Lake, and another hunter rescued three Chicago hunters from possible drowning late last week, as they were standing up to their necks in water on a log up to their chests in the water.

The hunters, who were standing up to their necks in the water, had been staying at the Charles Hotel in place.

Pregenzler and his companion were out in a blind when they heard the cries of the men as their boat started sinking 900 feet from shore.

They went to the rescue in a motor boat, and succeeded in pulling the hunters into the boat. The third, however, weighing over 300 pounds, required the combined efforts of all four men to pull the boat.

The boat had gone down under their weight as soon as the engine was stopped, they explained, although it operated all right as long as the motor was running.

Not Coercion but Co-OperationBy
LEONARD A. BARRETT

Whither Bound? A question which, though not frequently uttered, is secretly asked by every student of the national recovery act. Will the gigantic movement already set in motion lead to the return of prosperity? Or will it result in inflation and national economic bankruptcy? The question "Whither Bound?" assumes the answer can only come from the government itself.

Popular opinion seems to hold the government responsible whichever way the wind blows. An attitude of this sort clearly indicates the superficial type of much of the present-day thinking.

It is so easy to pass on to some other person or to some organization the responsibility which rightly belongs to us. Let it be frankly admitted that the responsibility for the return of prosperity does not rest primarily with the government. No amount of legislation can bring about an economic recovery any more than it can create a permanent peace. All the government can do is to set in motion certain forces intended to create a recovered prosperity. A physician prescribes to the best of his ability the medicine intended to restore the patient's health, but he cannot compel his patient to take the medicine. The fundamental spirit of democracy forbids the slightest act of coercion on the part of the government.

No person by coercion can ever be made moral. The moral imperative does not by force enter the sanctuary of the human will. True the choice of a wrong motive may result in a serious penalty, but the fact remains, we are left free to choose for ourselves between the moral alternatives in life.

It is not coercion but co-operation that will speed the return of prosperity. The responsibility for the success of the national recovery act rests upon every citizen in every state, city and hamlet in this country. There is no possible substitute for the spirit of mutual co-operation. If every citizen does his part the return of prosperity is reasonably assured. If that responsibility is shifted in some other seat of authority other than the individual conscience, the present efforts of the government are fraught with serious danger and in the minds of many expert economists are doomed to chaos and national disaster. Not coercion but co-operation is the soul of the national recovery act.

TIMELY TOPICS
BY ANTIOCH PEOPLEAntioch, Ill.
November 14, 1933Mr. Homer Gaston,
The Antioch News,
Antioch, Ill.

Dear Mr. Gaston:—

My attention has been called to a rather caustic three-line item appearing on Page 1 of your last issue. In this item you give the impression that the solemn pledge of the present great Governor of the state of Illinois is a snare and a delusion. You recite with great gusto how the Chairmen of the Central Committee of one of the downstate counties has just returned home after thirty days on the Public Pay Roll at $60 dollars a day as Inspector of Race Tracks.

I have been asked to comment on this story by our organization. In the first place let me say that a reading of your story leads me to think that it is inspired. I seem to see those mystic words, "Republican propaganda" spread all over the story. It is, I believe, a party to be so, and I believe it is a party who produced a Small, who even though he labelled himself the great roadbuilder since Julius Caesar, yet was forced by the courts of the state to return $850,000.00 to the public treasury that he had wrongfully converted to his own use while state treasurer; a party which produced a Thompson, who was largely responsible for the present bankrupt condition of the City of Chicago; a party who right here in this county openly placed appointments to public office upon the auction block during the administration of Louis Emmerson.

It strikes me, Mr. Gaston, that a party who has done all of these things can well afford to remember a saying from the Bible, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone." And that until sufficient time has elapsed to demonstrate that the Republican party is indeed undergoing a spiritual regeneration and is cleansing itself of the gentlemen who have caused the above, it comes with bad taste to say the least for them to cast aspersions at the head of a man who has built up for himself the record that Henry Horner has.

The Democrats of Antioch Township are proud of Henry Horner and what he is doing for Illinois and we want both you and he to know that we are, however, very, very grateful for the publicity you have given our local efforts and we sincerely hope that nothing may happen that may interfere with the continuance of this personal relationship.

Very truly yours,
G. E. PHILLIPS,
Chairman Publicity Antioch
Democratic Club.

The News assumes that Mr. Phillips' remarks are meant to be constructive, however he neither denies nor confirms the printed statement that the Democratic chairman of Fayette county received fifty dollars a day to inspect race tracks.

The inference that the News supports radical Republicanism is without foundation in fact, and it may interest Mr. Phillips to know that this newspaper never was in sympathy with Bill Thompson or Len Small, nor did it ever support them politically. On the contrary, the News has been quite outspoken in censuring the actions of both; and also the News openly exposed the corrupt practices followed during the administration of Louis Emmerson. In brief, Mr. Phillips, the News has always exposed graft in public office, whether in the ranks of the Republicans or Democrats. The Republican party does not possess all the virtues of government, and neither does the Democratic party have all the ills within its ranks.

No one need be a Solomon to know that the Horner administration has committed some grave errors in managing the affairs of our state. Only this week Governor

Horner was taken to task by the federal government, acting through Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, for delay in getting road work started under the federal aid program. Both Democrats and Republicans know the cause of this long and unwarranted delay. It concerns cement contracts, and also certain other contracts involving patents, only two of which have been approved by the highway department. Readers of history know that Nero added while Rome burned, and readers of the history being made today will tell you that the Horner regime played politics while thousands of men, idle and destitute, waited for a job. Partisan politics can not alter that fact.

By refusing even to consider the "pay as you go" plan and by forcing adoption of the $30,000,000 relief bond issue, by devious and unusual methods, Governor Horner and the Democratic machine have put an additional and wholly unnecessary burden of at least $12,000,000 on the taxpayers of the state. The only possible beneficiaries of the deal will be the bankers who eventually get the tax exempt bonds at a "sweet" price.

If the bonds pay 4 per cent interest the charge will be $12,000,000 over the 20 year period. If they pay 5 per cent, which is more likely, the interest will reach $15,000,000. There would have been just as much money for relief and no interest charges under the "pay as you go" plan.

Add to the $30,000,000 another $34,000,000—the estimated sales tax for the year—and the state's part of the gasoline tax, together with the federal aid, and you will readily see that the Horner regime will have a far greater fund to administer than has any other previous administration. All in the name of "relief," and how are they going to spend it? Certainly no criticism can be directed toward those tax payers who are keeping a watchful eye upon how this vast sum is going to be disbursed. That is not a matter of partisan politics.

The hope that Mr. Phillips expresses in the final paragraph of his letter will be quite simple of fulfillment. All that any organization has to do to continue an amicable relationship with this newspaper is to be able and willing to distinguish patriots and statesmen from politicians and chiselers, and to support for public positions of trust only those known to be actuated by unselfish motives, regardless of political affiliation.

There never was a time when there was greater need for unselfish and patriotic service in every community, large or small, throughout the entire country. In Antioch, the Democratic Club, one of the most active groups in the community, is in position to render valuable aid, and it is doing just that. The News commends the local Club for its constructive achievements in the past and offers complete co-operation in its every laudable undertaking.

Major Sexton, Commander of the Seventh District American Legion, has been secured to address the Men's Club meeting at the church tonight, in place of Congressman James Simpson, who sent word that he would be unable to attend as a guest speaker. Major Sexton is an interesting speaker, and will present a timely message.

This is the first fall meeting of the Men's Club, and is being observed with a dinner served by the ladies of the Church at 6:30, followed by a program. The meeting is open to all men of the community.

OYSTER DISHES SATISFY AFTER A CHILLY DAY

This Delicious Sea-Food Is Rich in Iron, Copper and Manganese

Do you like oysters? If you don't, they are easy to ignore; but if you do, an oyster sign in every meat shop is sure to catch your eye, and it's as tantalizing as a watermelon patch to a dandy boy.

To start out easy, so to speak, because some people like the milk oysters have been stewed in, but can't abide oysters themselves, we'll give first a recipe for oyster stew.

Stew Supreme

Cook oysters slowly in their own liquor over a slow fire, and scald the milk in a separate saucepan. Do not cook oysters too long, for they contain protein, you know, and are liable to become tough, but as soon as it begins to curdle, add milk, cream, salt, pepper, and a little Worcestershire sauce. Serve hot.

Oysters are rich in iron, for which liver is famed, and claim copper, manganese and other minerals.

Roasted Oysters

Oysters for roasting should be bought with their shells uncracked. Scrub well with a brush, cook in a hot oven in a pan until the shells part, then open and season with salt and pepper to taste.

Baked Oysters

These should be large fellows, taken from the shell, cleaned and dried. Dip them in melted butter, then in seasoned cracker crumbs and finally broil in a buttered broiler. Serve with tartar sauce or butter.

Broiled Oysters

3 dozen large oysters
18 strips bacon
Lemon
Minced parsley.

Open the oysters and place on the half shell in a wide baking pan. Over each oyster lay a half strip (cut across) of bacon. Bake for 12 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve hot with lemon and a dash of minced parsley.

To make a limited amount of oysters go further, prepare a creamed dish.

Oyster Croustades

Trim the crusts from a loaf of sandwich bread and then cut it into thin slices. Dig the crumbs out of the center of each square piece, producing an all too tiny even wall with a sharp parabolic rim. The center of each square piece, known as "chisels," knife, leaving walls and bottom. Large measure response of each slice of bread. Brush lightly with melted butter and States today, according to J. ## Fashion Previews

The interest in sleek, slender satin footwear has been revived by this fall's deluge of satin. There are stunning street oxfords of dull satin, and satin opera pumps for any occasion. Filmy hose of an off black shade are particularly stressed for black satin costumes.

Molred taffeta made with tailored precision are among the newest dinner dresses. They may be found in creamy white, pastel blue, and flesh.

The waist and skirt frock will be one of the leading items of dressy clothes for winter. It has a wide appeal because of its versatility and suggestion of other days. The eye-catching frock is of stiff silk, with a pull-over blouse of contrasting color, made sometimes in the form of satin or brocade waistcoat, blouse buttoning up the front, or in velvet or a two way stretch fabric.

Gold and silver bracelets to match metal trimmed frocks may be worn for both day and evening occasions.

Grandma's Rocker

"Glady! Gladyy!" Is there any mail for me this mornin'? Nuthin' from John or Blanche? I thought maybe again as how, well, never mind, let's see what they is. Nuthin' but an old circular, eh? What's it about? How many vitamins there be in Frisky Dog Biscuit, I bet.

"None; this one here has some high faintin' hints for the modern housewife. It says: Cheese which is too soft to grate may be divided finely with a potato ricer. That ought to work all right, if you had a potato ricer, I guess.

Let's see now. Listen to this one, Gladys. It says: For something different in appetizers you may purchase large, ripe olives stuffed with anchovies. What in the world are anchovies, Gladys? What? A kind of fish? Fish 'n' olives—mmm—might not be so bad, but sounds kind of fishy.

Here's something else they want to stuff. Stuffed oranges pecked in grenadine syrup are delectable meat garnishes. Humph! Plain parsley used to be good enough in my day.

"Ho, hum. Pussy, what are you lookin' at out the window? Oh, will you look at that little Perkins boy playin' outside, lookin' about froze-up. His mother order know that light fluffy wailes are warmer than that heavy stuff we're light like what he's wearin'. Bet the little feller is cold at night, if she thinks that heavy material is warmer than light woolly blankets.

There's old man Perkins out takin' off the screens. What's he doin' with them on the porch? Can't quite see—what in the world did I do with my glasses—had them just a minute ago! Gladys! What—oh, never mind, I found them. Why, he's paintin' in them screens—no, he couldn't be doin' that. I bet it's screen paint or oil he's brushin' on 'em—that'll keep 'em from rustin'. Well, he's got more sense than his wife has—I always did say that.

Dear, dear, it's gloomy lookin' outside with the trees so bare. Mobbie when Thanksgiving comes, we'll kind of forget about that, won't we, Furr-boy?

(Grandma "will be seein' you" soon.)

Humidity In Homes Necessary To Health

Have you ever wondered why you catch cold only in the fall, as soon as the house is "shut up"? Or why your throat so often feels dry and parched?

One reason, of course, is the lack of fresh air. The other is lack of humidity in the air. Heat must have moisture! If it is not furnished by the heating system it is up to you to provide by some artificial means installed about the house, such as a pan or pail of water hung just beneath the furnace register, or in some inconspicuous place in the room.

When there is an insufficient supply of moisture, the heat will draw it from the glued joints of furniture, from wallpaper, plaster, plants, or the human body.

Disregarding the detriment to your furniture, think of the injury to your health. When the fine hairs in the nostrils are dried out, your resistance to colds is lowered. Water is necessary for each cell in the body to function properly, and when deprived cannot do so.

Some women complain that they never are able to keep plants alive in winter. This is partly due, and in some cases, entirely due to a lack of humidity in the air.

WONDERS, it seems, will never cease. We have had the self-starting car, the self-winding clock, the self-regulating oven, and now—wonder of wonders to the housewife—we have the self-layering dessert. These desserts, made with fruit-flavored gelatin, will literally arrange themselves. The secret is that some fruits are heavier than fruit-flavored gelatin and some are lighter. When these fruits are put together into a bowl, and warm fruit-flavored gelatin is poured over them, the lighter fruits float and the heavier fruits sink. There's no waiting for layers to set.

Not to mention the great convenience there is in making these gelatin desserts with water slightly hotter than lukewarm instead of by the old fashioned boiling water method. This gives a better texture to the gelatin, and cannot cook the gelatin, a richer, truer fruit flavor, because none of the flavor is carried off in steam; faster setting—you can put it into your refrigerator without any break in waiting.

HOCKEY CLUB WILL SPONSOR BENEFIT DANCE

Funds Will Be Used to Prepare Rink for Winter Schedule

The Antioch Hockey Club will sponsor a benefit dance to be given at Bruno Rojewski's Pasadena Gardens Saturday night, November 25, officials of the local club announced this week. Proceeds from the dance will be used to build the rink, which will be located near the Soo railroad on Depot street in Antioch, and to install lights before the start of the playing season in December. Members of the club will be selling tickets for the dance within the next few days.

The Antioch team during the greater part of last season played on the rink at Fox Lake. Later a rink was made at Smith's Slide Inn at Channel Lake. Much interest was created in the sport which was new to this locality, and now that the local team will have a home rink, it is expected that larger crowds will attend and that many who hitherto have been unacquainted
